

RELATIONSHIPS, SEX AND HEALTH EDUCATION POLICY

Introduction and definitions

This policy covers the teaching of Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) at Shirley High School. It also covers Health Education. These subjects are statutory (meaning the school has a legal duty to deliver them) from September 2020. RSE and Health Education are delivered as part of the Personal Development curriculum at Shirley High School; full details of the Personal Development curriculum are available on our website.

We define relationship education as teaching students about positive relationships, with a focus on friendships, family relationships, and relationships with other students and adults.

Students will be taught about what a relationship is, what friendship is, what family means and who the people are who can support them. Building on primary education, students will be taught about different kinds of relationships, including intimate and sexual relationships; how to recognise when a relationship is harmful or unhealthy; about physical, sexual and emotional health; and about how to manage their online lives. Learning will reflect the fact that families can take many forms, and will be sensitive to the varied backgrounds that students may come from and the lifestyles they may have (for instance if they are in foster care or are young carers). Teachers will take care that students are not stigmatised due to their home circumstances.

Students will learn about the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe contact, whether this is physical or online. Students will learn about positive emotional wellbeing, as well as how to recognise when they are at risk or abuse and exploitation. We will ensure that students know how to seek help if they feel they need to.

Relationships education will reflect the fact that many students spend time online. They will learn about how to recognise unsafe behaviours online, such as the sharing of images, the impact of pornography, and responding to contact from other people.

The sex education element of RSE will look at topics such as contraception, the facts around pregnancy, sexual health and how lifestyle choices can affect fertility. Its aim is to ensure that, as adults, students enjoy happy, consensual sexual lives in a way that safeguards their health and wellbeing.

Health education aims to teach students to understand physical and emotional wellbeing so they can make good decisions about their health. It will allow them to recognise what is normal for them and when to seek help. Students will learn how physical and emotional health are linked and can affect each other. They will learn about sexually transmitted infections, substance misuse, and the facts about pregnancy and parenthood.

Students will learn about ways to develop their self-control and their abilities to make decisions. They will be taught about ways to respond positively to setbacks or challenges. They will also be helped to overcome prejudice and stigma around health issues, especially those connected with mental health. Students will learn about menstruation, and girls will be helped to manage their periods.

Many aspects of this curriculum overlap and a single topic can cover elements of relationships, health and sex education. A full list of the topics covered in both primary and secondary education are shown in the appendix.

Rationale

There have been huge changes in society and technology which mean there is a need to update the way we teach our students to negotiate the world in which they are growing up. It is important to recognise that students live in a diverse, rapidly-changing world; Personal Development is designed to equip them to deal with this as well as helping them to form happy, healthy relationships throughout their lives.

Our Vision:

To develop aspirational learners who strive for excellence academically, creatively and culturally, benefitting from a wide range of opportunities led by inspirational educators.

Principles

Ensuring Age Appropriate RSE

We subscribe to the PSHE association (<https://pshe-association.org.uk/>) which provides guidance and resources based on statutory guidance to ensure everything taught is age appropriate.

We will use the tool at Appendix 2 - provided by the PSHE Association - when selecting a topic or resource to check that it is age-appropriate. It may be necessary to deliver a topic earlier than planned in response to students' needs – for example, if there is a need to respond to local or national events that are causing concern. Similarly, we may need to repeat a lesson with older pupils if we feel that they need more help in understanding it.

Staffing

The Head of Personal Development is responsible for overseeing Personal Development, including RSE and Health Education, at Shirley High School. The Head of Personal Development is line-managed by the member of the Senior Leadership Team with responsibility for Personal Development.

Personal Development will be delivered by form tutors and on a carousel of a small group of teachers. The content is split equally between the two.

Tutors are an effective choice for teaching PSHE because:

- They are likely to have a good knowledge of the class and their backgrounds, and can therefore tailor the lessons to best meet the students' needs;
- Tutors can quickly identify students who need more help with an aspect of the subject, or who may be vulnerable and need additional support.

The carousel teachers mean that:

- Carefully selected topics are taught with confidence by a smaller group of teachers, meaning they have great confidence and expertise in the content being taught;
- Whole, or large majority of year groups will be taught by the same teacher, meaning that any misconceptions or adaptations to the curriculum based on the year group needs can be fed back to the Head of Personal Development and adapted.
- Certain topics are taught in smaller groups meaning more support for students and opportunities to ask questions.

Where it is not possible for Personal Development to be delivered by the form tutor, it will be delivered by another appropriately trained member of staff. All staff teaching Personal Development will receive regular training and the delivery of the subject will be quality assured by the Head of Personal Development in line with the Performance Management Policy.

We will sometimes invite external agencies to deliver specific lessons or activities. All external agencies invited into the school to deliver Personal Development will be quality assured and appropriate safeguarding checks conducted.

Curriculum

See Appendix 1 for a list of the topics that we will teach in Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education. The list is taken from the Government guidance on what schools are expected to teach in this part of the curriculum.

All Personal Development curriculum maps and medium-term plans will be available on our school website.

Right to withdraw students from lessons

There is no right to withdraw from Relationships and Sex education. Nor is there any right to withdraw from Health education. This is because the topics covered, such as respect, safety and friendships are important if students are to grow up into happy and healthy adults.

Parents of students in secondary schools do have the right to request that their child is withdrawn from sex education that is delivered as part of statutory Relationships and Sex Education. However, from three terms before their 16th birthday, a child can decide for themselves that they want to take part in sex education and in these cases the child's request will be granted. In the context of the Shirley High School Personal Development curriculum, we consider sex education to apply to the four-week sex education unit delivered by Croydon Health undertaken by students in year 9.

Parents who do wish to withdraw their child from sex education should contact the Principal to discuss the matter. This will allow them to talk through their concerns and to ask any questions they may have. It will also allow the Principal to explain the curriculum and the benefits that their child will gain from taking part in the lessons. A record will be made of the conversation, but such requests will be granted and students provided with an alternative, supervised place to work whilst sex education is being delivered.

Lesbian, gay bisexual and transgender (LGBT)

In teaching Relationships Education and RSE, we will ensure that the needs of all pupils are appropriately met, and that all pupils understand the importance of equality and respect. We must ensure that we comply with the relevant provisions of the Equality Act 2010 and The Equality Act 2010.

Any teaching on LGBT issues will be sensitive and age appropriate in approach and content, just like any other topic. At the point at which schools consider it appropriate to teach their pupils about LGBT, we will ensure that this content is fully integrated into their programmes of study for this area of the curriculum rather than delivered as a stand-alone unit or lesson.

Review and consultation

This policy will be reviewed every year. It will be reviewed by the governing body and the Principal, in consultation with parents and staff. This will take the form of circulation by email of the draft policy and updated curriculum documents followed by the opportunity to submit comments through a survey and follow up conversations as required.

We want all at SHS to believe in and maintain the values of our school:

Appendix 1 - Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

Families and people who care for me	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• that families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and stability</li><li>• the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other’s lives</li><li>• that others’ families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children’s families are also characterised by love and care</li><li>• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children’s security as they grow up</li><li>• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong</li><li>• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed</li></ul>
Caring friendships	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends</li><li>• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties</li><li>• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded</li><li>• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right</li><li>• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed</li></ul>

Healthy eating	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• what constitutes a healthy diet (including understanding calories and other nutritional content)</li><li>• the principles of planning and preparing a range of healthy meals.</li><li>• the characteristics of a poor diet and risks associated with unhealthy eating (including, for example, obesity and tooth decay) and other behaviours (e.g. the impact of alcohol on diet or health)</li></ul>
Drugs, alcohol and tobacco	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• the facts about legal and illegal harmful substances and associated risks, including smoking, alcohol use and drug-taking</li></ul>
Health and prevention	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• how to recognise early signs of physical illness, such as weight loss, or unexplained changes to the body</li><li>• about safe and unsafe exposure to the sun, and how to reduce the risk of sun damage, including skin cancer</li><li>• the importance of sufficient good quality sleep for good health and that a lack of sleep can affect weight, mood and ability to learn</li><li>• about dental health and the benefits of good oral hygiene and dental flossing, including regular check-ups at the dentist</li><li>• about personal hygiene and germs including bacteria, viruses, how they are spread and treated, and the importance of handwashing.</li><li>• the facts and science relating to allergies, immunisation and vaccination</li></ul>
Basic first aid	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• how to make a clear and efficient call to emergency services if necessary</li><li>• concepts of basic first-aid, for example dealing with common injuries, including head injuries</li></ul>
Changing adolescent body	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• key facts about puberty and the changing adolescent body, particularly from age 9 through to age 11, including physical and emotional changes.</li><li>• about menstrual wellbeing including the key facts about the menstrual cycle</li></ul>

Secondary school

Schools should continue to develop knowledge on topics specified for primary as required and in addition cover the following content by the end of secondary:

Families	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• that there are different types of committed, stable relationships.</li><li>• how these relationships might contribute to human happiness and their importance for bringing up children</li><li>• what marriage is, including their legal status e.g. that marriage carries legal rights and protections not available to couples who are cohabiting or who have married, for example, in an unregistered religious ceremony</li><li>• why marriage is an important relationship choice for many couples and why it must be freely entered into.</li><li>• the characteristics and legal status of other types of long-term relationships</li><li>• the roles and responsibilities of parents with respect to raising of children, including the characteristics of successful parenting.</li><li>• how to: determine whether other children, adults or sources of information are trustworthy: judge when a family, friend, intimate or other relationship is unsafe (and to recognise this in others' relationships); and, how to seek help or advice, including reporting concerns about others, if needed</li></ul>
Respectful relationships, including friendships	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• the characteristics of positive and healthy friendships (in all contexts, including online) including: trust, respect, honesty, kindness, generosity, boundaries, privacy, consent and the management of conflict, reconciliation and ending relationships. This includes different (non-sexual) types of relationship</li><li>• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships</li><li>• how stereotypes, in particular stereotypes based on sex, gender, race, religion, sexual orientation or disability, can cause damage (e.g. how they might normalise non-consensual behaviour or encourage prejudice)</li><li>• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including people in positions of authority and due tolerance of other people's beliefs</li><li>• about different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders to report bullying and how and where to get help</li><li>• that some types of behaviour within relationships are criminal, including violent behaviour and coercive control</li><li>• what constitutes sexual harassment and sexual violence and why these are always unacceptable</li><li>• the legal rights and responsibilities regarding equality (particularly with reference to the protected characteristics as defined in the Equality Act 2010) and that everyone is unique and equal</li></ul>

Appendix 2 - Age appropriate checklist for SRE

This checklist should be used when deciding on when to deliver a particular topic or activity as part of Personal Development in our school. It can also be used when choosing resources. Staff may also wish to use the resource checklist that is also available.

Consider:	Yes	Comment
GREEN – almost certainly age-appropriate, but consult SLT if unsure
The topic/activity uses language and images that the students will understand
The topic/activity matches the students’ physical and emotional development (NB: this may not always match their chronological age)
The topic/activity complements other aspects of the curriculum being followed by the students
The topic/activity matches the learning objectives for the lesson and scheme of work
The topic/activity is being delivered to prepare students for a physical or social change they are expected to experience within the next 6 months (eg puberty or transition to secondary school)
AMBER – may need discussion with SLT or parents before teaching begins
The topic/activity is being taught earlier than planned as there is a need to respond to questions from the students (NB be aware that questions may indicate a need for a safeguarding investigation)
The topic/activity is being taught earlier than planned as there is a need to respond to local or national events that the students are aware of, or as a response to bullying, homophobia etc.
The topic/activity is designed for older students but is being taught to a younger group because they are reaching puberty early or have shown other indications that they need understanding of the issue
The topic/activity is designed for younger students but is being taught to an older group because the students need additional support in understanding this subject
RED – do not proceed without permission from SLT and consent from parents
The topic/activity includes images or descriptions of sexual acts, pornography, crime etc. (In secondary schools this may be relevant to the lesson but should only be used if agreed by the Head of Personal Development)
